Direction (Q. No. 46-50) : Read the passage carefully and answer the following questions.

I must say that, beyond occasionally exposing me to laughter, my constitutional shyness has been no disadvantage. In fact I can see that, on the contrary, it has been all to my advantage. My hesitancy in speech, which was once an annoyance, is now a pleasure. Its greatest benefit has been that it has taught me the economy of words. I have naturally formed the habit of restraining my thoughts. I can now give myself the certificate that a thoughtless word hardly ever escapes my tongue or pen. I do not recollect ever having had to regret anything in my speech or writing. I have thus been spared many a mishap and waste of time. Experience has taught me that silence is part of the spiritual discipline of a votary of truth. Proneness to exaggerate, to suppress or modify the truth, wittingly or unwittingly, is a natural weakness of man, and silence is necessary to surmount it. A man of few words will rarely be thoughtless in his speech; he will measure every word. We find so many people impatient to talk. There is no chairman of a meeting who is not pestered with notes for permission to speak. Whenever the permission is given the speaker generally exceeds the time limit, asks for more time, and keeps on talking without permission. This kind of talking can hardly be said of any benefit to the world, but is so much waste of time. My shyness has been in reality my shield and my buckler. It has allowed me to grow. It has helped me in my discernment of truth.
